

Free online resources for church and parish websites

The Diocese of East Anglia has a number of website resources which parishes and schools across the Diocese are encouraged to link to from their own websites and social media accounts.

The Diocesan website at www.rcdea.org.uk contains the latest news and events, information about Bishop Alan and all the different departments including youth, schools, vocations, evangelisation and Commissions. It also provides a guide to finding priests, deacons, churches, schools, hospitals etc.

There are also Facebook pages for Diocesan News, Schools News and Ignite/Youth News.

We have an online picture gallery of all main recent events across the Diocese on Flickr. You are welcome to download and use any of the pictures in your parish or schools newsletters or websites.

Director of Communications, Keith Morris, said: “We would strongly encourage churches and schools across the diocese to use all of these free online resources and links on their own websites.

“We would also ask that you carefully check any existing links to the diocesan websites to ensure that the current details here are included and not any old websites addresses, at least one of which now points to an entirely different sort of web content.”
